HOW WE PROVIDE GOOD COMMUNICATION TO HEALTH CARE PROVIDERS ON INSURANCE ISSUES

By Tara L. Eubanks

We Appreciate Referrals
Please feel free to refer any family members or friends should they need any legal services. A referral from you is one of the best compliments our office can receive. Consultations are complimentary.

Graham Lundberg & Peschel know that it is important to keep our clients' health care providers informed of ongoing changes in the insurance arena. In addition, we know that it is important to make our clients' health care providers aware of issues arising from the insurance companies so that they may better care for their patients and their patients' claims. Many times the issues presented by the insurance companies affect payment on the patients' accounts. We have several channels by which we provide this information.

First, we mail a monthly newsletter titled "A Guide to Recovery & Resolution" to each and every health care provider in our database. This newsletter covers a wide array of topics on insurance and personal injury claims. Some of the topics have included "where to find insurance coverage" and "how to properly document in order to ensure payment on accounts".

In addition, we provide free lunch seminars four times a year throughout the Puget Sound. Our last seminar was on the topic of "Getting Paid in a Personal Injury Case". At these seminars our attorneys present on a topic and provide answers to questions asked by the health care providers. These seminars are often small enough to allow group discussions to take place or a general question and answer period. This allows us to not only get to know our health care providers, but it also allows the providers to bring with them any issues that they are concerned with and may want to discuss.

On June 14th, 2007, we will be putting on an all day conference for health care providers, which we hope will provide a mountain of information to aide them in the care of their patients.

Finally, our attorneys have an open door policy. All of our attorneys and paralegals are willing to answer any questions or potential issues regarding which a health care provider may call the office. Many times, providers call our office to ask questions unrelated to our clients, and we are always willing to take the time to answer them.

Graham Lundberg & Peschel believe that cooperation and communication between the medical and legal communities only serves the best interests of the patient-turned-client.

Attorney and Paralegal Team Sean A. Ayres and Patti Cryder

Sean A. Ayres, an Associate Attorney, and Patti Cryder, his Paralegal, work out of the Port Orchard office of Graham Lundberg & Peschel and are a dedicated team devoted to guiding their clients through the complexities of their personal injury cases.

Throughout his practice, Sean Ayres has represented victims of premises liability, common carrier accidents, defective products, and motor vehicle collisions.

Sean's commitment to victims' rights is demonstrated by the endless efforts he undertakes to understand the circumstances of each claim and the extent of injuries and damages sustained by his clients.

Patti Cryder has been with GLP since 1999. She keeps Sean on his toes with her effective management of cases. Always on top of things, Patti really gets to know all of our clients. They feel comfortable speaking with her and know she is there to help.

Dedication and commitment to our clients is what makes our Port Orchard team so effective and popular.
